Joe Anderson
Land Manager
Cimarex Energy Company

Joe G. Anderson is the Land Administration Manager for Cimarex Energy Co. in Tulsa, Oklahoma, and directs the company's Division Order, Leases/Contracts, and Records departments. Joe served as 1995 President of the National Association of Division Order Analysts, and as the 2000-2001 First Vice President of the National Association of Lease and Title Analysts. He is a member of the local and national associations for Division Order Analysts and Lease and Title Analysts.

Austin W. Brister
Oil & Gas Lawyer
OilandGasLawDigest.com

Austin W. Brister was born and raised in the oil and gas industry, being the son of a heavy industrial construction worker. After spending three years building refineries, compressor stations, and constructing coal-mine facilities, Austin began assisting in-house legal counsel, negotiating and administering multi-million dollar construction contracts, and heavy casualty insurance claims. A few years later, Austin completed law school and began representing the upstream oil and gas companies in acquisition & divestitures, and rendering all forms of title opinions.

Austin is currently an associate at McGinnis Lochridge, where he regularly assists clients in all phases of acquisitions, from negotiating the Purchase and Sale Agreement, to due diligence, and through to closing. Austin has assisted several budding E&P's form their business entities, and has assisted in oil and gas litigation. With licensure in the four states of Colorado, North Dakota, Texas and Wyoming, Austin also regularly assists his clients in rendering all forms of title opinions.

Austin was the principal author of the paper "Multi-Jurisdictional Overview of Drafting and Negotiating Surface Use Agreements" which was presented in Washington D.C., at the 2013 AAPL Meeting. Austin has also presented at the North Houston Association of Professional Landmen, and is slated to present at several luncheons and CLE's throughout 2015.

Will King
Associate General Counsel & Project Manager
Keane Unclaimed Property, New York, NY

Prior to joining Keane, Will served as a vice president and the Associate General Counsel at Unclaimed Property Recovery & Reporting (UPRR) where he oversaw development and delivery of risk mitigation and unclaimed property solutions to holders across multiple industries but with a specific focus on oil and gas firms. Before working at UPRR, Will worked in the litigation departments of Steptoe & Johnson, LLP in Washington, DC and Phelps Dunbar, LLP in New Orleans. He has also spent time in the enforcement division of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA), the self-regulatory organization overseeing broker/dealer conduct in the United States.
